Colonials Confirm Home Field for 2008 Inaugural Season

The Morris County Colonials today announced their home field for their inaugural 2008 season in the NPSL. The team has signed a contract and will play home games at the Morristown Beard High School in Morris Plains.

"This is great news", said General Manager Rob Napier. We wanted a top quality facility to reflect the level of the competition. In addition to that, we got an incredibly accessible location that can only make life easier for our supporters.

The Colonials are running open tryouts on December 22nd, with over 30 players registered to attend so far. The team has already confirmed the signings of Morristown HS standout Connor Lade, local coach Rob Alman and former Brazilian professional Leandro, but Head Coach Adrian Borrows is waiting until the tryout before extending offers to any additional players. "The quality of players who have reached out to us has been incredible", Borrows commented "I can't wait to get them all out on a field working together". While the 12/22 tryout will fulfill Borrows' desire, he will have to wait some time for his first taste of competitive action. The Colonials' first competitive game will be in early May, with the season running through to a National Final the first week of August.

The Morris County Colonials team will play in the NPSL Mid-Atlantic Conference, where opponents will include the Philadelphia Liberty and 2007 conference winners Queen City (Buffalo) Long Island Academy, Pennsylvania Stoners, Boston Aztecs and Maine Sting. Conference winners move on to national play-offs, and the current national champions are SoCal Fusion (San Diego, CA) who beat Queen City in Los Angeles three months ago. The season runs May through the end of July, so players can return to their college teams for pre-season.
